

Quantum Physics III: It All Started In The Beginning

Bev Robinson

INTRODUCTION

Science is progressing in many fields. In a single generation we have unleashed the power of the atom, stored an entire library in a chip, read and engineered DNA. There are books published that have to be updated. That is the way it has always been throughout history. Change is inevitable in all fields. One of the greatest changes that coincides with Scripture is in the field of physics and cosmology. Quantum physics is a study of subatomic particles. Cosmology is the study of the universe.

I suppose in all of science it has been The Zoological sciences which seem to be the ones refusing change from the teaching of evolution. This teaching continues to confuse people as it did me in my early understanding the Bible. Evolution is called a theory but is taught as fact in schools and universities.

In physics Albert Einstein resisted quantum physics because he was mainly a classical physicist, but quantum experiments opened his understanding toward the end of his life. He is an example that most of us need. Receive change in learning what God is revealing.

God thrust me into quantum physics. I didn't even like physics in college. I certainly don't consider myself an expert. I am but a learner. I do like science, and how quantum physics it is relating to and backing up Scripture is exceedingly exciting to me. I believe God set me in place to understand and to teach some of this subject, especially for those who enjoy science.

In the past many have said let the Church be the church and science be science, with that attitude we cut off more and more people. A century ago the consensus of the public especially here in Western hemisphere was that God is the God of the Bible. Many people don't think that is true these days, and question the relevance of the Bible to everyday life. I know absolutely that the Bible tells that God created life in this world and He tell us how to live.

I don't understand everything in the Bible, and I probably won't until I get to heaven, but I know what I do understand has changed my life. His truth is absolute truth and all other discoveries of real truth will fit into His truth.

The way I want to present these writing is simple. I will state Scripture and then write about how quantum physics or other science backs it up. Then I will give an illustration if I know one.

Let us see that it all started in the beginning--- in Genesis and look at two other Scriptures in the New Testament.

Genesis 1:1-4 (NASB) "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. The earth was formless and void, and darkness was over the surface of the deep, and the Spirit of God was moving over the surface of the waters. Then God said, "Let there be light"; and there was light. God saw that the light was good; and God separated the light from the darkness.

Col 1:15-17 (NASB) "He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation. For by Him all things were created, both in the heavens and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—all things have been created through Him and for Him. He is before all things, and in Him all things hold together.

Hebrews 1:1-3 (NASB) "God, after He spoke long ago to the fathers in the prophets in many portions and in many ways, in these last days has spoken to us in His Son, whom He appointed heir of all things, through whom also He made the world . And He is the radiance of His glory and the exact representation of His nature, and upholds all things by the word of His power. When He had made purification of sins, He sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high."

In these three Scriptures we see that the Godhead created heavens and the earth. Scripture doesn't give all the particulars but enough to know when and where it started, and Who did it.

Physicists believe the universe began about 12 billion years ago in a cosmic explosion known as the big bang, when a magnificent explosion of energy appeared and converted to particles of matter. Out of these particles of matter arose stars and galaxies; in at least one galaxy, planets; and on at least one planet, life.

When I was born again in my late twenties, one of the things that brought me to Christ was I chose to accept the Bible as the absolute Truth no matter what I was taught in science. The Big Bang theory did not trickle down to the general public until the 1960s and 70s. When I heard this it resonated in my spirit that we were on the track of God being reinstated into science. It began as a bang and has been a steady flow since. In recent years the understanding of God in science has sped up much as other findings in different fields have moved into double and triple time.

Discoveries in quantum physics and cosmology have uncovered through science exactly what was written in the Scripture thousands of years ago. God revealed to the writers of the Bible how it happened and now he is revealing to scientists the things told to inspired writers. Of course no one who was inspired to write the Scripture could know what the scientists of today have discovered. God has known all along this would happen. He has planned it.

Somewhere I read that science started in the middle age because the Church had gone so off course in the worship of relics, and money being paid for getting relatives out of purgatory.

God may it be that science has returned to its original purpose proving Scripture.
